MATTY WANTS BIGGER SHARE FOR PLAYERS

STAHL AND MCGRAW BOTH HAPPY OVER TIE RESULT IN SECOND GAME

By JAKE STAHL.
THE Red Sox have always felt that Mathewson was the one man they had to beat. I think the game, while it did not end in a victory, shows that we can hit the New York twirler, whose work must have tired him out.

By JOHN J. MCGRAW.
WE have stopped the Red Sox on their home grounds, and the team is very well satisfied. We have shown that the Giants are game and their game plan is going to count a great deal more before the series is over.

By SAM CRANE.
Christy Mathewson, who is always prominent and usually foremost in plans to benefit ball players and who is considered the brains of the professional players and their spokesmen whenever real or imagined evils crop out derogatory to their interests, thinks the National Commission is altogether too arbitrary in its methods of dictating what the players' share of the receipts of the World's Series games should be.

WANTS SHARE IN PLAY-OFF GAMES.

Mathewson, in fact, indicates, or rather suggests, that if the players' share is cut in future games, the National Commission will find itself let out by some club or the other that is entitled to play for the consolation of the universe, and that those who take part in the games, Mathewson's present complaint is the commission's refusal to allow the players to share in any play-off game, in case there is a tie in any game of the first game played.

Mathewson also thinks the players are entitled to be represented in the financial statement of the World's Series receipts, to know how all tickets are disposed of and why the national commission is entitled to its full percentage of the receipts.

Players the Attraction.
Matty says the players are the attraction that draws the immense crowds to the World's Series, and the business houses that give their employees a certain day's receipts, are allowed to look over the receipts, that ball players, with their much larger interests, should be given a like privilege.

"Then the World's Series were first started the National Commission made a set of rules that gave the players a cut."

MAYOR ASKS PROBE OF COAL PRICES

Mayor Fitzgerald has written to President Joseph R. Russell, suggesting that the Boston Chamber of Commerce inquire into the high prices of coal and if possible get them reduced to reasonable figures.

FIVE NEAR DEATH WHEN TROLLEY CAR AND AUTO COLLIDE

RETLAND, Vt., Oct. 10.—An automobile party, including Mr. Frank C. Partridge, wife of a prominent official of the Vermont Marble Company, had a narrow escape from death today when her automobile was struck head on by a trolley car and the machine was pushed out of the road with the machine just missed falling over an embankment sixty feet high. The front of the auto landed itself in the mud and dirt, thus saving the motorists from death. In the car were Mrs. Partridge and her baby, Mrs. Alice Holland, Miss Freda Thomas and the chauffeur, David Ogilvie.

MAYOR FITZGERALD SAYS:
The Rhode Island car is the best in New England.

POLLOCK'S STORY OF GLADIATORS' BATTLE

By CLEMENT L. POLLOCK.
FENWAY PARK, Oct. 10.—As I sit perched in this press observatory and try to recall the more or less sanguinary combat that stained this classic baseball field yesterday, there comes floating through memory's aisles the days when we lived with Old Doctor Caesar, with now and then a day off at the Coliseum with a pass for Nero's box.

All of the experts' have told how great was the game, and far be it for me to say that it wasn't, but I don't think any of the alert experts have expatiated sufficiently upon the remarkable escape the battling athletes had from the ambulance and the hearse.

I congratulate both teams on the fact that the World's Series goes on without an adjournment for a funeral.

HARK YOU, MCGRAW! REMEMBER JURGUTHA!

Discussing the whole matter now with some of the old players, I recall an old player in the fighting days of Rome named Jurgutha, or some such thing, and the Romans were always picking on him. Finally he slipped between his own, his arms were raised, and a few battered Roman gladiators, who they'd let him alone.

But they did not stop at that. They got out their umbrellas and rain coats and before the noon hour, was reached they were all over him.

When speaker speaks.
The crowd hangs on his every note.
When speaker speaks.
All Boston fans prepare to grope.
When speaker speaks.
When from his belt the winged words drop.
They take those scraps of long ago,
Demosthenes and Cicero,
When speaker speaks.

Finally he slipped between his own, his arms were raised, and a few battered Roman gladiators, who they'd let him alone.

'UNSETTLED!' SAYS OUR FORECASTER, HONEST PROPHET

The first word of today's weather forecast is reminiscent of yesterday's game: "Unsettled."

Local Forecaster Smith wanted to be a good fellow, but he wouldn't qualify himself, as an inarguable prophet, by promising sunshine all this afternoon. But he allowed there was an even chance.

His official forecast was:
For Boston and vicinity—Unsettled, probably showers tonight or Friday. Cooler tonight. Moderate variable winds.

There he said in explanation:
The weather for this afternoon is unsettled. It may be fair all the afternoon, or it may cloud up and rain a little. But there is a fair possibility that rain will hold off.

3 TO 1 AGAINST TAFT. WALL STREET ODDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—A bet was made in Wall street of $900 to $200 that Taft would not be elected. Frederick Robinson offered $1,000 even that Hedges would beat Hiram, $1,000 to $1,000 that Hiram would not be elected, and $3,000 to $1,000 that Taft would not be elected.

With two of the greatest battles ever fought on the diamond as their record for the past two days, the Red Sox and Giants will clash again at two this afternoon, with the betting at even money on the series.

Outside of a regular cloudburst, the scheduled contest will go on, and the faint drizzle of early morning, and the weather man's prediction of "unsettled with occasional showers" didn't worry either the teams or the fans today.

FANS RAAGER FOR RENEWAL OF BATTLE.

The diamond was covered with canvas today, the field will be in perfect condition after the game yesterday's conditions.

Thirty odd thousand saw the game yesterday, and unless it pours after the game so-

How Red Sox Joys and Giant Glooms Battled to a Draw in Bunker Hill Up-to-Date

For a Soft Velvety Skin and Bright, Fluffy Hair

Full winds have a peculiarly brightening effect on the delicate skin, and proper safeguards should be used to protect it. A highly meritorious lotion can be made at little cost by dissolving 4 ounces sugar in either 8 pint witch hazel or hot water and adding 1 teaspoonful glycerine. This dries quickly, is invisible when on and imparts that soft tint of healthy maidhood to the skin. The sugar lotion serves every purpose of powder and makes clear and beautiful any complexion.

"Strive," unmanageable hair is the result of improper shampooing. A very satisfactory shampoo for fall is prepared by dissolving a teaspoonful cantharox in a cup of water. This makes a rich, bland lotion that removes every atom of dirt, dandruff and excess oil and after rinsing, the hair dries quickly with a rich even color and gloss. Cantharox shampoo makes the hair fluffy and encourages a thick, long growth.

G. O. P. DINERS TALK RED SOX

Red Sox talk weighed in as the dinner tendered Joseph Walker, Republican candidate for Governor, by the Republican Club of Massachusetts at the Boston City Club. For a time it threatened to take the luncheon away from the campaign dinner in the situation it held.

In opening the dinner exercises President Samuel L. Elder, after acknowledging three cheers, said:

"We are in a ridiculous time. About every man that meets you on the street says: 'Well, how is it going to go?' and then you have to look him over carefully and get a line on him, for perhaps he's talking about the World's Series. Of course, everybody is looking the Red Sox with win. I saw eleven images of a game, and there was nothing settled, and I think it was the greatest experience of a man's lifetime."

Lieutenant Governor Luce also spoke.

Heirs Divorces Grocery Clerk and Will Marry Again

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—When an actress marries a grocery clerk, most any one will sing of "The True Romance." But sometimes even such a romantic marriage ends in the divorce courts.

Witness the story of Mrs. Mary Baker Moulton and John P. Moulton. Mrs. Baker had inherited $100,000. Moulton was a grocery clerk. They met over a basket of groceries, and were married two weeks later.

This was in 1908. But Moulton displayed a partiality for shoes and managed to keep himself pretty well in the public eye. Finally, in 1909, his wife discovered she had made a mistake and went to New Haven.

Then Mrs. Moulton secured a divorce and now her engagement to John C. Richardson is announced. They will be married October 20.

WINONA WINTER, ACTRESS WHO WENT TO SCHOOL HERE

Over at the Tremont Theatre is a girl who is playing in "A Polish Wedding" whose only ambition about the stage is always to have the part of an ingenue. Winona Winter is the young woman, and her only reason for being an actress is because she thoroughly enjoys the work. It matters not what the professional work is as long as the part is that of a young girl.

This dainty miss, who is still in her teens, has practically been on the stage since she was a mere child. She is a daughter of Banks Winter, at one time a noted actor on the variety stage.

"Talking of her career, Miss Winter says that the stage is life to her, although she admits that she has learned the simple life. She wants to have a farm and raise cows. 'You know I was practically raised on a farm and it comes natural to me to like the soil,' she said. 'I was born in Haverhill, Mass., and can remember to this day what pleasure I had when running about the fields. I did not have much chance, however, to remain on my farm, as father and mother were then on the stage and father sent me to Boston, where I attended school and then went to the Boston High School.'

"I made my first appearance on the stage in Detroit, with 'The Little Tycoon,' playing a child's part."

'My Wages So Low I Stole to Clothe Myself' Says Girl

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—I had to steal to get presentable clothes to wear. The wages I was able to earn amounted to a grim joke," said Mrs. Maude Wilbur of Syracuse, N. Y., when she was brought here from Columbus, O. She told of robbing women of the biggest stores in New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago, according to State Attorney Wayman. Although only twenty-one years old, the woman is said to have conspired into two years more during exploits that occur to the average woman criminal in a lifetime.

She says she is a graduate of Syracuse High School, and that she had received further education training in an art school.

Mrs. Wilbur was arrested as she stepped from the doors of the Ohio penitentiary, where she had completed a ten months' sentence.

"I chose to become a thief, and while I am in prison, as they say, I believe still that I have a chance for better things when prison days are over."

"I have spent, the best blue line of my prison can take that from me. Of course the criminal life doesn't pay, and I think I have learned the lesson. With the value the lesson of life learned in the last two years I am planning to start anew when I have served whatever sentence is imposed on me here."

NEW EVIDENCE FOR DAKOTAN

When the Russell will hearing was resumed today at East Cambridge, there were several witnesses on hand ready to go on the stand and testify that Dakota Dan is Daniel Blake Russell.

Mrs. Scherzer testified that evening sessions should be held to bury the case along, but this will not be sanctioned by Mr. Nason, and in consequence the hour for moving court may be advanced in order to get in more time on the case each day.

The dragging of the Russell family skeleton into the limelight was half-expected by the ruling of Master Gilbert A. Fayer, in sustaining objections by Attorney Robert Allen of counsel for the Russell estate.

Former Mayor John Larabee of Massachusetts, an intimate friend of the late Senator John A. Russell, and a member of the Wyoming Order of Moose, of which Daniel Russell was a prominent member and patron, was among the witnesses who testified to their opinion that Dakota Dan was the real Daniel Blake Russell.

Mrs. Alice C. Hill of Monroe was put on the stand to say that she noted the similarity between the claimant and Daniel Russell before she had known Dakota Dan.

REFUSES TO LET ETTOR GET BAIL

Judge Quinn, who is presiding at the trial of Joseph J. Ettor, Arthur M. Ghavan and Joseph Curran, charged with complicity in the alleged murder of Annie Lo Pouch in a Lawrence strike riot, today handed down a decision in the Superior Court at Salem to the effect that the three prisoners must remain in jail.

Judge Quinn overruled the motion of counsel for the defense to admit the men to bail. In the decision the court says: "Assuming that this court has the authority to entertain the motion, as to which I have grave doubt, I find that the defendants are not entitled as of right to be admitted to bail, and that there is no such cause that moves the court in the exercise of its discretion to release the defendants on bail."

GEORGE E. MARSH'S WILL IS ALLOWED

The will of George E. Marsh of Lynn, which bequeaths an estate that furnished the alleged motive of his murder on the Lynn marshes some time ago, has been allowed.

After the murder, for which William A. Dorr of Stockton, Cal., is now awaiting trial in the Salem jail, the Marsh estate has been much before the courts. It is alleged that Dorr and Marsh as that a niece to Stockton, Cal., whose guardian Marsh was, might have been the alleged motive of his murder on the Lynn marshes some time ago, has been allowed.

RECORD THROUG GREETED WILSON

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—The largest throng of Democrats Chicago has seen for years greeted Governor Woodrow Wilson when he entered Chicago today. The Governor's reception several weeks ago was most compared with today's.

Patriotic feeling has disappeared, and all branches of the Cook County Democratic party joined to welcome the Democratic candidate. An escort a mile long, including mounted and motor cycle police, marching clubs and bands, was ready when the New Jersey executive stepped off the train. He was taken first to the Congress Hotel, then to the Southern Club. From there he went to McVicker's Theatre for a speech.

Lunches at the Congress Hotel provided a reception at the Congress Hotel where Governor Wilson was the guest of women teachers. Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of public schools, closed the schools to permit 6,000 women teachers to hear Governor Wilson.

This evening the Governor is to speak at the Seventh Regiment Armory. Tomorrow he goes to Canton, O.

At St. Louis Governor Wilson and Speaker Champ Clark met with a rousing reception when they appeared on the platform together and then at Springfield, Ill. in the company of the Governor and his party reached St. Louis late. ARCHBOLD ADMITS HE WROTE LETTERS AS CHARGED BY HEARST

AGAIN GRILLED ON STAND IN CAMPAIGN PROBE.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—John D. Archbold, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, was recalled today by the sensational committee investigating campaign contributions and the probe was again taken up as to the political activities of the Oil Trust.

Before he was called, L. C. Layton, manager of President Taft's pre-convention campaign in Ohio, testified that his own statement showed between $50,000 and $75,000 as contributions to the Taft fund in that State.

"What contributions were made outside of those given by Charles F. Taft?" he was asked.

"We received contributions from Charles D. Hillis, Halbert Taft and one or two other small contributions amounting to no more than $100," he replied.

Denies Receiving Money.

Q.—Was any money sent into Ohio during that period for the Taft campaign. A.—I have no knowledge of any except one.

John D. Archbold, Witness in Campaign Fund Probe

JOHN D. ARCHBOLD

Forker. A—I have no doubt I wrote the letter.

Q.—It reads: "According to our understanding I now enclose to you a certificate of deposit for $15,000." Mr. Forker is not at present in the Senate, but we are supposed to go into matters between him and members of the House and Senate? A.—The payments were for Senator Forker's services as our counsel in Ohio.

Explains Other Enclosures.

Senator Clapp then called the witness attention to another letter by Archbold sending $14,000 to Forker. The witness explained this check with the same words as before.

A third note enclosing $10,000 was next read. The witness acknowledged having sent such a letter and check, saying that this also was for Senator Forker's legal fees.

Five thousand dollars was the amount mentioned in the fourth note, and the witness said:

DRAW UP FROM BED TO FACE AUTO STEALING CHARGE

Letter E. Knowlton, twenty years old, of No. 10 Tufts st., Somerville, was awake when he was taken to the hospital by two police officers from Boston and taken to Mattie St. in the Back Bay early today, where he was locked up, charged with the latest of an auto-stealing charge by the Frederick E. Randall company of No. 11 Hingham street, Roxbury.

The police claim that Knowlton stole the car in front of the downtown hotel, Tuesday night, while the owner was inside. The auto was found in Lynn, where it broke down.

The police found a pawn ticket in Knowlton's possession for a physician's bag containing all surgical instruments, the property of Dr. H. A. Field of Mattie street, which was reported to have been stolen from a doctor's suite on Bowdoin street Tuesday.

TAFT'S FAMILY SPENT $213,582

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Charles F. Taft, the President's brother, told the Senate committee investigating campaign funds that he had paid $213,582.41 this year toward the expense of getting the President re-elected as Chicago. "I was prepared to go the limit," he said. He said he gave $115,000 to help elect his brother in 1908.

Mr. Taft said his object in going into the campaign was to make his brother's name known to the people. "If elected, could walk into the White House free of any monetary obligation to any individual, great interest or corporation."

Matthew Hale of Boston said the Roosevelt primary campaign in Massachusetts this year cost $71,436.56, $9,802.70 of which was raised locally.

Mr. Hale told the committee he believed the Taft family had spent much more in Massachusetts than the Roosevelt forces. He said Edgar R. Channing had been the nominal head of the Taft forces "until Congressman Gardner came down and took charge."

The cost of the Massachusetts fight had been increased, he said, by the fact that the Roosevelt forces had fought for a third primary.

Senator Oliver informed that the Massachusetts election gave a primary majority to Roosevelt, but that the Massachusetts delegates to Chicago were for Taft.

"We simply differ," said Mr. Hale.

MAYOR WARNS OF FIRE HAZARD

Mayor Fitzgerald declared that the fire hazard in Boston is tremendous, in an address to the Massachusetts State Firemen's Association, which closed offices today.

The Mayor, speaking after Mrs. Commissioner Cole, said:

"The three-story dwellings, erected by men who buy a couple of acres of land and then build the cheapest of constructed traps, is likely to flame the loss of thousands of dollars' worth of property and the lives of hundreds of people."

From the way that things are going now, I am afraid it will require a terrible fire to wake the people to the danger that they are being surrounded with by the construction of these flimsy buildings."

Commissioner Cole spoke on "An Outline of the Firemen's Work of the Work of the Metropolitan Fire Hazard Commission," and said in part:

"When we come to compare our own city of Boston with the other cities in the country, we find that ten cities on a ten per cent. basis show that with the largest per capita loss, $3.50; Chicago fourth, with $2.50; New York fifth, with $2.25, and Philadelphia sixth, with $1.75."

I've Changed Mind, Writes Girl Gone on Eve of Wedding

Dear Peter—I have changed my mind. The wedding cannot take place. I am sorry for the trouble I am causing you.

Miss Spelman's sister, Mrs. Elizabeth T. Spelman, telegraphed to Peter Tierney, whom she literally left "waiting at the church," the two were to be married at St. James Church, Boston, last night.

Tierney received the note at the home of Miss Spelman's sister, Mrs. Elizabeth T. Spelman, at No. 55 Highland street, Salem.

Miss Spelman said that her sister went away suddenly Tuesday night, taking a heading. Miss Spelman left with her sister was at No. 57 Highland street, arranging the furniture in the home that was to be the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tierney.

Tierney is a woman in a marriage case. Miss Spelman has been employed as a maid for Forest E. Carr at No. 7 Atlantic avenue, Beverly. The two had been engaged several years.

Suicide Had Practiced 'Perfume Puncture,' Paris Fad, in Boston

The latest Paris fad, the injection of perfume beneath the skin with a hypodermic syringe, has been practiced in Boston.

This was reported in letters from the rooms of Professor A. A. D. Newton, who committed suicide by taking gas at No. 10, Union street.

Four women underwent the painful treatment, in which at times of roses and oil of roses mixed with alcohol has been injected with a hypodermic syringe into their shoulders and arms during the week before the professor's suicide.

In one of the letters found Professor Newton explained the "perfume puncture" in detail.

"The same I received were startling and I expect to be kept busy all winter, as the results placed all four ladies. The injections I have given are the first to be given in this country. I am convinced, although in the past few months the fashionable Parisian ladies have given hundreds of treatments."

"The effect lasts for two weeks, during which time there is never a strong odor of perfume and always just the faintest trace of roses radiating from every inch of the neck and shoulders."

THE PROBLEM OF COLLARS

Discussed in a way that any man can understand

This advertisement is intended to set at rest many delusions regarding collars and put into the minds of the men of Boston a thorough knowledge of the best 2-for-a-quarter collar ever made in America.

We will first say a few words

AS TO THE SHAPE—

The way in which every other manufacturer of collars advertises the shape or style of his product, one would imagine that the only thing to be considered in a collar is the shape.

As a matter of fact, there is no patent on shapes. Every maker can imitate the shapes—new or old—put out by other manufacturers. Incidentally, we have originated in our designing room over 60 per cent. of the shapes now being advertised so strenuously by other makers.

We can supply any shape of collar on the market—the only real difference between the shape of our collars and other brands being that our collars retain their original shape until the collar is worn out, while other makers' collars generally lose their shape after the first visit to the laundry.

QUALITY COUNTS

Quality is the thing that counts strongest in the making of collars. The quality of the fabric—quality of starching—quality of hand-work as opposed to machine-turned collars—quality of inspection—quality of factory equipment—all go to make the by far the most satisfactory collars and by far the most economical collars that a gentleman can wear.

Their class and style show in their fit—their matchless whiteness—their comfort—their retention of shape through continued use.

A complete assortment of shapes and expert help in selecting the best style and size for your needs may be had at the two following Boston agencies for Frisbie Collars:

MOTHER FIGHTS TO RECOVER BOY

FREDDY DEBELLE, CARRIED OFF FROM SCHOOL BY FATHER

Mrs. Sarah J. DeBelle, a slight, frail looking little woman, appeared in the Suffolk Probate Court today to fight for the possession of her nine-year-old boy, Frederick, whom her husband took from the Perkins school on St. Botolph street yesterday. The father was armed with the proper legal papers, but Mrs. DeBelle alleges facts were misrepresented in order to secure them, as the boy was given into her possession seven years ago, on separation decree.

The boy is now in the legal custody of Edmund J. Holmwood of Waltham, whom the father had named as temporary guardian in the papers on which he secured the boy from the school. Mrs. DeBelle stated that she had been told that the boy was secured through misrepresentation. Under the laws of the state, a temporary guardianship may be issued by the court without notice to the father, she alleged, the father's second possession of the boy.

The boy was valued in an automobile accident some time ago. It was thought he would not recover. It was to secure damages in this case that the father seized the boy, Mrs. DeBelle alleged.

Mrs. DeBelle, at her home, No. 27 Berwick park, said today: "I have supported the boy since he was a baby a year old, when my husband left me. Since then he has not contributed a cent to my support. When this father went to get him at school, the boy screamed and cried. He didn't want to go at all. These teachers tried to prevent the father from taking him, but they could not hold him from the father, as he had the legal papers. I had possession of the boy by a legal decree issued some seven years ago."

KENNEDY'S—The Live Store

Tessie, you make me feel so badly,
Why don't you turn around?
Tessie, you know I love you madly;
Babe, my heart weighs about a pound.
Don't blame me if I ever doubt you,
You know I wouldn't live without you,
Tessie, you are the only, only, only.

The Greatest Factor In This Live Store's Success

We've used many dollars' worth of space in this paper to explain our ability to give you the latest and the best of all the Good Clothes made—how we search the market for all that is new and good and right, and are never obliged to offer any manufacturers' mistakes.

But there's one other thing that's of still more vital importance to both you and us—Values, for when all's said and done, value-giving is the keynote of this Live Store's policy—the way and the means by which we are building bigger and bigger—by which we are increasing our business at a pace never before known in Boston.

We are by far the largest spot-cash buyers of Good Clothes in New England. Every advantage which we obtain through big orders and cash payments—every saving we make through low rent and the elimination of charge accounts—is passed along to our many customers in the form of lower prices on clothes of known high quality.

Today's Stock Market

By MARK PRICE.
STATE STREET, Oct. 9.—There are few persons identified with dealings done in their regions who think the market has gone "flat." They are rather in the minority. It is a right to talk about Montevideo, the smallest thing among monarchies in Europe, precipitating a war of the powers, but with the recent coup in America is relating to feed the world, and despite a presidential campaign, you can't get away from it.

It was a little off here at the start, and then at the end of the first hour things looked about the same as they were last night. North State after the closing for the past few days, was off 1/4 at 38 1/2. Calumet closed at 32 1/2. The first hour was a little off here at the start, and then at the end of the first hour things looked about the same as they were last night. North State after the closing for the past few days, was off 1/4 at 38 1/2. Calumet closed at 32 1/2.

The New York Market.
Despite further depression of the foreign markets because of the Balkan situation, New York showed an unexpectedly steady tone at the opening today, although price movements were irregular. There was a demand for Standard issue, and the price of steel common opened 1/2 off, but recovered, the preferred common of Canadian Pacific, after being 1/2 off, made 1/2 up on local buying; Southern Pacific was hard hit by foreign selling, dropping 1 1/2. It rallied and recovered 1/2 of this loss at an hour.

MR. HEARST SAYS:

Drop the Old Stock Free Trade
Fallacies

Adopt a Wise and Just Protective Tariff

Modify It by Reciprocity and Preferential Duties

Special Cable to the Boston American.

PARIS, Oct. 9.—President Taft, after the accepted manner of potentates, gave a third-person interview to the press some ten days ago.

If the interview had in reality been given by a third person it would probably have been contrived more cleverly for the President's political advantage.

On the particular occasion when the President promulgated his ponderous third-party pronouncement he advanced the most convincing argument for the election of Mr. Wilson that has yet been contributed to the campaign.

Mr. Taft declared, first, that the tariff is responsible for the high cost of living; second, that the tariff ought to be reduced; third, that it ought to be reduced scientifically.

If President Taft's conclusions are correct there is no alternative for a philanthropic and patriotic citizen but to vote for Mr. Wilson.

Obviously, if the American protective tariff is responsible for the high cost of living which at present prevails all over the world, then undoubtedly our voters owe to their own country and to other friendly nations the humanitarian duty of relieving the oppressive burden of the high cost of living in America and elsewhere by promptly reducing the American protective tariff.

Obviously again, if it is the duty of our considerate and conscientious citizens to reduce the tariff it is their plain duty not to vote for Mr. Taft, who had four years' opportunity to reduce the tariff and did not do it, nor to vote for Mr. Roosevelt, who had seven years' opportunity to reduce the tariff and did not do it; but to vote for Mr. Wilson, who wants to reduce the tariff, and positively will reduce the tariff if given an opportunity to do it.

Obviously, furthermore and finally, a scientific reduction of the tariff does not consist in doing nothing at all to the tariff, as was done throughout Mr. Roosevelt's two terms, nor yet in dishonestly increasing the tariff, in spite of party pledges, as was done with Mr. Taft's consent and approval during his term.

Scientific reduction of the tariff consists, rather, in judiciously and discriminately modifying the tariff in a way carefully calculated to benefit all the people of the United States, be they employers or laborers, producers or consumers.

To secure and insure such scientific modifications of the American tariff, I beg most respectfully to suggest to Governor Wilson the following course:

First. The abandonment of all old stock free trade arguments, based upon fallacies and upon exploded theories and upon promises which have been proven to be false by the practical and unprofitable experiences of free trade nations like England.

Second. The recognition of the principle of protection of American industries, and the wise and just application of that principle to those industries which require and deserve protection.

Third. The modification of the protective tariff, on the one hand, by reciprocity, which will open the markets of foreign nations to our products in return for the opening of our markets to their products; and, on the other hand, by preferential duties which will reduce the tariff on goods imported into the United States in American ships.

All of these policies are Democratic, and have the sanction of Democratic precedent, but more essential than that, they are patriotic. They are policies which will develop the manufactures of the nation and the trade of the nation and the merchant marine of the nation and the general prosperity of the nation. They are policies which, through increased production and increased commerce and transportation and increased employment and payment, will benefit every individual in the nation.

It is useless to talk of a protective tariff, properly applied, being mainly responsible for the increased cost of living. It is worse than useless; it is senseless. The cost of living in England, a free trade country, is quite as great as the cost of living in the United States, a protective country.

Indeed, to make an even more convincing comparison, the cost of living in England, a free trade country, is notably greater than the cost of living in Germany, a protective country. If, therefore, free trade or radical tariff reduction can reduce the cost of living, why is not the cost of living in free trade England largely lower than the cost of living in protected United States, or at least as low as in protected Germany?

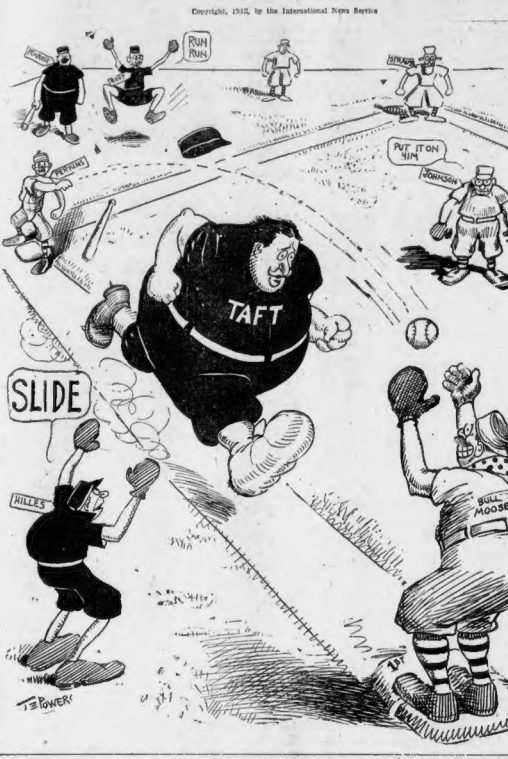

As a matter of fact, even the most radical tariff reduction does not materially reduce the universally increasing cost of living, but it does materially reduce the wherewithal to meet the increasing cost of living. Radical tariff reduction does force manufacturers out of business and men out of employment, and by throwing a superabundance of labor upon the market does reduce the price of labor, which is wages.

In England the wages paid in most lines of labor are so low as absolutely to shock the American sense of justice and of regard for the general welfare.

In every industry that I have had occasion to investigate I have found wages 40 to 50 per cent lower in England than in America.

At the time of the recent railway strike in Great Britain I investigated the wages of the engineers and trainmen.

I found that the highest salaries paid any railway engineers in Great Britain were less than fifteen dollars a week, and that these so-called high wages were paid to only a dozen men, who were the star engineers on fast trains meeting the Atlantic liners.

The average engineer received less than nine dollars and a half a week; firemen averaged less than six dollars a week, and the average guard, who corresponds to our conductor, received six dollars and thirty-six cents a week.

There would be a revolution in America, and a justifiable one, if such wages as these were paid to our competent railway employees. Yet, with such wages, working men in free trade England are expected to meet a cost of living as high as or higher than ours.

No wonder there are industrial disturbances in England, and strikes and riots and men shot down by the soldiery; no wonder there are political and economical discontent and an emigration so great that the steamship lines cannot carry all who desire to leave England.

The false statement that living in England is cheaper than in America has been made so often that it is believed by those who have not taken the trouble to learn the facts.

Living is not cheaper in England than in America. If anything, it is dearer. Food is much dearer in England than in America.

Luxuries, like fruit and many vegetables, are entirely beyond the reach of the average individual. Rent is cheaper in England than in many places in America, but taxes are immeasurably greater, raising the actual cost of rents from 30 to 35 per cent.

Custom-made clothing is cheaper in England than in America, but nowhere in the world is ready-made clothing as remarkable in cut and quality and cheapness as in the United States. Shoes are better and cheaper in the United States than in any other place in the world. Traveling and transportation in the United States are about half what they are in England.

Meats, though high in the United States, are higher in England, and a good part of the beef in England is imported from the United States and Australia.

Newspaper men whom I have sent to England as resident correspondents have often asked to be allowed to return to the United States on account of the higher cost of living in England.

These are the facts, and facts should be the basis of every argument.

Governor Wilson, like every other good American citizen, is trying to benefit his country, but we cannot benefit our country by misleading our countrymen. Let all of us Democrats abandon worn-out and worthless free trade arguments and frankly admit there is a certain amount of judicious protection in a beneficial thing for our country and our people. Then let us seek to apply protection discriminately to develop and maintain valuable industries which require protection and which through the just and proper conduct of their business dealings with the public, deserve protection.

Let us realize that the tariff (even an unfair tariff) is not the cause of special privilege, but merely a symptom of special privilege; a useful institution, partly corrupted by special privilege.

Special privilege has invaded our tariff system, as it has invaded our railway system and our public land system, our judicial system and our governmental system. But the remedy lies not in abolishing government, or the proper functions of government, but in taking the government out of the hands of special privilege and placing the government and all its proper functions more directly in the control of the whole people.

There should, therefore, be no governmental encouragement of oppressive trusts, no governmental fostering of special privilege, either through undue or undeserved protection or otherwise.

But surely an important and essential function of an adequate and impartial government in this business age is the proper encouragement and protection of all legitimate industry and business activity.

Let us then modify the tariff and purify the tariff, together with all the acts and operations of government, to meet the requirements of the times. But let us modify the tariff in a way which will benefit our own nation at least as much as it will benefit competing nations.

Let us adopt a general policy of reciprocity which will compel the markets of other nations to be open to our products whenever our markets are open to their products.

Let us repeat the old and accepted Democratic declaration in favor of preferential duties which will compel importations to be made in American ships, which will restore the American flag to the sea, and which will revive the American merchant fleet, the great prosperity of our people in time of peace and the better protection of our country in time of war.

These policies are both prudent and patriotic. They will enable the Democratic party not only to win this election against a divided Republican party, but to win other elections against a united Republican party, and to remain permanently in power, bulwarked and buttressed by the approval and heartfelt appreciation of the entire American people.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

STEADY WORK AND FAIR WAGES.
BOSTON, OCTOBER 10, 1912.
Dear Sir:—It is a pleasure to acknowledge the sympathy of the AMERICAN for the wage-earners of the community, but America is not without her problems which confront the men who manage the great enterprises of the world. The wage-earners to find employment receive the same sympathetic consideration.

As far as the manufacturing industries of Lawrence are concerned, it is true that they represent an invested capital of $1,000,000,000. In 1910 the investment in wages to the workers of Lawrence was $1,000,000,000. In 1911 the investment in wages to the workers of Lawrence was $1,000,000,000. In 1912 the investment in wages to the workers of Lawrence was $1,000,000,000.

ONE day last week the AMERICAN told in this column of a young girl who had developed her talents in her own home, almost without outside aid, and is now a commercial artist earning $50 a week.

This story was read by the mother of another girl who had once shown some signs of latent ability in the same line of work, but who had given up all chance of doing self-expression in the work she loved because her parents were too poor to give her the training she thought she needed.

"You might have done what this girl has done," said the mother. "If you had her courage, her perseverance, her determination, you might now be earning what she is instead of spending your days at a desk in a stuffy office."

"Too late! Too late!" How those two little words repeated over so many of us!

We, too, soon forget that it is never too late while we are alive. That is one of the most glorious messages of education. We are always going forward or coming backward. We are never still. We progress or retrogress.

That is the law. If you are fit to be an artist, if you truly love some kind of work with all your strength, you can succeed in that kind of work if you are willing to pay the price.

Success is bought. Success must be earned. And the price demanded is not always the same.

Success came to you more easily that it did to the artist girl who is earning $50 a week. It may come harder, but you must not let what you want if you are willing to study and work.

Owen Kildare, drunken, disreputable, ignorant, a howler from up to his throat in the gutter, but when he was asked to make himself fit for her—and wrote "My Mamie Does."

There is always hope. There is always a chance. The world needs all its men and all its women. The world needs you—needs you just as it needs the artist girl.

What is it that you have to give? This the world will take—and pay for. Remember that the world needs you quite as much as you need it. Hold to that belief.

Be yourself to serve others. Money? Why, money is the money which will do it. Money is the money which will do it. Money is the money which will do it.

Maybe in the following suggestions you will discover what you need to help you were others.

Paid for Schooling. Although my method of earning money is so very humble as not to appeal to every woman, it might possibly help some one, placed as I was and equally unfortunates.

One day, while calling on an old friend who took in washing for a living, I chanced to hear her tell her little girl to tell a lady, for whom she did a small washing, she did not care to do it any more, as she preferred large family laundry. How I wished I was too proud to do it myself!

All the way home and all day I fought my pride. I wanted to take an expensive designing course in a correspondence school, and American agents would make me to pay for it, as it could be had by paying ten dollars down and as low as two dollars a month till paid, and by doing that way I could be studying at the same time I was earning.

My supper time my mind was made up and I found the lady's address, went and secured the money. My friends laughed at me, but I kept my own counsel, paid for it, bought my own clothes, and paid about fifteen dollars for the first bill.

The lady put the clothes in a nice small box, with an envelope in the bottom containing the money, put the box out on the piazza of the house where she boarded, and I went, just as dark, took it and returned it the same way, not seeing her for months afterward.

To my credit I will say the work was so well done that every little while some customer would come to take theirs, too, but I took only two teachers, just to help out awhile, here alone paying from fifty cents to seventy-five cents a week.

My entire course, with drawing table, paints and other tools, together with nothing, cost about $150, and now I have my diploma with a good education, due to my own unaided effort.

MISS WINIFRED M. LAWRENCE, No. 200 Wilson st., Manchester, N. H.

Ribbon Roses and Buds. I make ribbon roses and buds for weddings and parties; also trim very expensive for hats for ladies and children. I am now making very pretty fuzzy collars for pat dogs and cats. I made a collar not long ago for a little grey dog. Little hands can be made of small ribbon roses on black velvet, with the little buds hanging down for necks. I have no of showing my fuzzy things, or no doubt I could send more. CLARA JOY, No. 17 Hill st., Dorchester, Mass.

Starved Clothes. I had to help out in the family income and was at a loss to know what to do. I could only do cleaning, washing and ironing, and I was doing that I would have to put my children in the street and I hated to be away from them. I have no of showing my starved clothes at home. After getting my first customer I did not need to hunt my more, as she got me all the rest. I have lost nothing that work ever since. It is now work and I like it. My customers are principally poor women, and I am doing that I always have more than I can do and am able to be at home all day and keep my children with me. When I tell you that the first three years I did my work in a furnished room, with a bed, a table and a chair, and a flight of stairs (no water in room, dried my clothes on a stick out the window, and I had a small stove, and I have never lost a customer. You may guess that it was not always born easy. However, I am not looking backward, but forward.

MISS L. R. STUART, No. 55 Baxter street, South Boston.

Does Crocheting. I make some money by crocheting. Just now, I have some of the late crocheted bags to make. They are very simple and one may get a pattern at any embroidery counter. I ask $1.00 for them, not counting the material. Sometimes I make crocheted lace for underclothing and sell it from 25 cents to 75 cents a yard, according to the pattern. Jabots and collars are made, and I have some people are always ready to buy them, especially before Christmas time.

Hope this will help you very much. MISS P. W. BRADY, No. 25 Prince street, Brockton, Mass.

Home Made Sweaters. Let me say my little to all of you who are making sweaters. I have made sweaters and have done draw work on cash and even curtains. I have made sweaters, and I have done draw work on cash and even curtains. I have made sweaters, and I have done draw work on cash and even curtains.
